Nineteen-ninety-eight has been an important year for the Compagnia di San Paolo and, more generally, for the ex-banking foundations. Indeed, in December 1998, the Italian Parliament passed the bill of law on “ex-banking foundations”. Members of Parliament and the Minister Carlo Azeglio Ciampi, have dedicated an immense amount of time and effort on this long-awaited legislation. And so, enormous progress has been achieved in developing new “infrastructures of civil society”, such as those represented by the ex-banking foundations.

The Compagnia has on more than one occasion expressed its largely favourable opinion on the contents of this bill. The role assigned to the ex-banking foundations has been clearly defined, excluding involvement in the management of the banks, in which they hold a stake. And during the debate prior to the bill’s approval, the repercussions on the activities of the foundations finally took on significant importance. It confirms the matters discussed in the foreword to the Compagnia’s 1997 Annual Report, where we hoped that the ex-banking foundations would be valued less for their role as investor and more for their standing as “flexible and far-sighted operators, capable of contributing to the ongoing process of social change”.

We are convinced that the operations carried out by the Compagnia, particularly, but not exclusively, in 1998, will serve as a useful indication on how to understand the foundations’ role in “supporting economic growth”, one of the more controversial aspects of the new bill. The principal ventures supported by the Compagnia in its areas of intervention - research, education, art, culture, health and welfare - may be considered as original forms of support for “selective economic growth”. A more articulated and medium-to-long-term approach to growth factors is implicit within this outlook, factors which quite rightly involve training, services for the individual and quality of life.

During 1998 - after the privatization of Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino S.p.A. and the start of the consequent diversification of its asset base - the Compagnia has been able to deploy resources for assistance and support within institutional sectors amounting to approximately 113 billion lire (over 58 million euro), of which over 10 billion lire was set aside by law for the “Special reserves for voluntary services”. This has meant a large increase compared with the prior year when the total amount was 43 billion lire (about 22 million euro) of which 4.4 billion lire allocated to the “Special reserves”. I therefore feel duty-bound, in presenting this detailed description of the use of these resources, to thank the Compagnia’s staff for the commitment they have dedicated to this important feat and for the skill they have shown in building and sharing a genuine “foundation identity”.

Greater resources signify above all the means to realize important projects which will enable the Compagnia to properly perform its role as multiplier of resources for innovation. In this area, during 1998 the Compagnia furthered the creation of the Istituto Superiore di Tecnologia dell’Informazione e delle Telecomunicazioni (Higher Institute of Information and Telecommunications Technology), carried out as part of the project for extending the Turin Polytechnic. The project will involve a financial commitment of 42 billion lire in the five-year period 1998-2002 - the largest grant ever awarded by the Compagnia - a commitment which we consider to be a model for the role that ex-banking foundations can play in Italy in the future.

Nineteen-ninety-nine shall be a year of further qualitative growth for the Compagnia. New opportunities for joint ventures between leading foundations should open up, both within and outside their customary areas of intervention: the joint project with the Cariplo Foundation “for the development of human capital in Southern Italy” can be taken as a prime example. Another significant aspect will be increasing international cooperation, looking to the Europe of the euro and beyond. This will entail developing relations with leading international foundations, with whom the Compagnia has already established important partnerships, which may be strengthened in the near future.

The Compagnia has therefore new, exacting yet fascinating challenges ahead of it. We will endeavour to face these tasks with the same care and commitment as in the past towards the ideas, goals and needs emerging. Above all, we shall continue to act with the transparency that has become one of our trademarks and of which this 1998 Annual Report represents a fundamental element (the Report will be made available on the Compagnia’s Internet site). I am therefore pleased to present our 1998 Report for the attention of public opinion.

List of Grants in 1998
Introduction
In 1563 a group of Turin citizens founded a confraternity whose purpose was to assist the poor and destitute: this was the birth of the Compagnia di San Paolo. A few years later the Compagnia set up a non-profit-making Pawnshop with the aim of fighting usury. The Pawnshop then moved financial and credit activities.

Over the centuries, the Pawnshop was to become a full-blooded credit institution, which in recent years, has become the core of Italy’s largest banking group, Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino. At the same time, the charitable work continued at an intense pace, in forms that were in keeping with changes in society.

The Compagnia di San Paolo gave new impetus to its original purpose at the end of 1991, when the “Amato-Carli” law introduced the division of banks and proprietary bodies: the banks became public limited companies and the proprietary bodies were assigned social goals.

Further steps in the direction taken in 1991 are the Compagnia’s new Articles of Association, adopted in 1995, and the privatization of Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino, which was successfully completed in 1997. Thus the Compagnia is clearly separated from the Bank, in which it has shed its controlling interest, and is in a position to exploit fully its own operational potential in non-profit activities.
Institutional Activities

In line with its Articles of Association, the Compagnia's institutional activities comprise the following sectors:

- scientific, economic and juridical research;
- education;
- art;
- culture;
- health;
- assistance to socially deprived categories.

The Compagnia’s main projects and initiatives in the above areas are discussed in the section on Activities in 1998. For the purposes of this Report, a complete list of the initiatives financed in 1998 has been included, with details of the beneficiary, the project and the amount allocated.

Funds allocated in 1998 by the Compagnia to institutional activities in the above sectors came to 102,849 million lire, equating to 53,117,195 euro, in addition to the provision set aside for the Reserves for Voluntary Services (Law 266/91), which should amount to over 10 billion lire. During the first year of activities following the privatization of Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino S.p.A., available funds increased by approximately 166% compared with 1997 (38,598 million lire, in addition to the 4,402 million lire earmarked for the Reserves for voluntary services). In the five year period 1993-97, the total amount of funds allocated by the Compagnia came to approximately 96,100 million lire.

In the sector of assistance to socially deprived categories, the Compagnia also has the services of:

- Ufficio Pio, which operates with an extensive network of volunteers as an “emergency” service for the needy and also provides training-work grants targeted at providing employment for socially disadvantaged young people;

- Educatorio Duchessa Isabella, which was originally founded to educate “poor girls”; today it grants scholarships to students of either sex who come from particularly difficult family situations, provided that they attend educational institutes based in Turin or the surrounding municipalities.

- final data in millions of lire (rounded off), pursuant to resolutions for each financial year;
- until 1995 the interventions were classified in the three areas indicated above;
- the resources used in 1992 come from the “Funds for Charitable Works and Public Utility” that remained after the institutional reorganization of Istituto Bancario San di Paolo.
The Compagnia is a member of the European Foundation Centre - EFC in Brussels, which unites 160 foundations active in Europe and around 7,000 associates.

The EFC, apart from providing technical support for its members, represents the foundations in dealings with the European Union and other European institutions. In 1998 the ninth EFC Annual General Assembly and Conference, bringing together approximately 500 delegates from 43 countries, was hosted for the first time ever in Italy, Turin, by the leading Italian foundations under the coordination of the Compagnia.

During the opening plenary, the Compagnia’s Chairman, Gianni Merlini, presented an in-depth examination of the status and prospects of non-profit making foundations in Italy.

During the course of the conference, the Compagnia presented a study based on the findings of a survey carried out in conjunction with the EFC concerning the evaluation methods adopted by the foundations.

An important role is also carried out by the Association for Innovative Cooperation in Europe - AICE, which promotes joint projects between European foundations, and with whom the Compagnia is actively involved.

OFFICERS AND GOVERNING BODIES

The Compagnia’s Officers and Governing Bodies are: the Chairman, the Board of Governors (“Consiglio Generale”), the Management Committee (“Comitato di Gestione”), the Board of Auditors, the Secretary-General.

The Chairman is appointed by a decree of the Treasury Minister. He is the legal representative of the Compagnia vis-à-vis third parties and he chairs the meetings of the Board of Governors and the Management Committee. He may, in the interest of the Compagnia, take decisions on urgent matters that are the competence of the Management Committee; furthermore, he may be delegated powers concerning decisions on expenditure and grants. Every year the Board of Governors elects from among its members one or more vice-chairmen.

The Board of Governors is entrusted with the task of defining the programmed policy and the management lines which the Compagnia’s activities must adhere to, as well as setting the criteria for the allocation and distribution of funds in the various sectors of intervention. Furthermore, the Board appoints the Secretary-General, who supervises the Compagnia’s organization.

The Board of Governors is made up by:

♦ the Chairman;

ten members appointed as follows:
♦ one by the Treasury Minister;
♦ two by the City of Turin;
♦ two by the Chamber of Commerce of Turin;
♦ one by the Province of Turin;
♦ one by the City of Genoa;
♦ one by the Chamber of Commerce of Genoa;
♦ one by the Chamber of Commerce of Milan;
♦ one by the Chamber of Commerce of Rome;

d a number of members, varying in number from six to nine, appointed by the other members of the Board among prominent Italian and foreign personalities who have a proven capacity and experience in the Compagnia’s intervention sectors.

The Board of Governors chooses within its ranks the elective members of the Management Committee, which has all the powers for the ordinary and extraordinary business of the Compagnia, except for those aspects that are expressly reserved to the Board. Thus, it is the Management Committee that decides on institutional initiatives.
The Board of Auditors, the Compagnia’s control body, consists of five statutory Auditors and five alternate Auditors, appointed as follows:

- the Chairman and one alternate Auditor by Treasury Ministry Decree;
- one statutory Auditor and one alternate Auditor by the City of Turin;
- one statutory Auditor and one alternate Auditor by the Province of Turin;
- one statutory Auditor and one alternate Auditor by the Chamber of Commerce, Turin;
- one statutory Auditor and one alternate Auditor, by rotation, by the Chambers of Commerce of Rome, Milan and Genoa and the City of Genoa.

Scientific, Economic, and Juridical Research

A total of 30,661,900,000 lire (15,835,549 euro) was allocated to scientific, economic, and juridical research in 1998.

Scientific Research

- The commitment of the Compagnia to the ICT Programme - Information and Communication Technologies for the Istituto Superiore di Tecnologia dell’Informazione e delle Telecomunicazioni (Higher Institute of Information and Telecommunications Technology) as part of the expansion of the Turin Polytechnic - an initiative which involves funding of 42 billion lire - has important implications within the field of applied research. The initiative is financed equally between the Research and Education sectors and is described in full in the following section on Education.

- At the end of 1998, the foundations were laid for an initiative entitled “Compagnia di San Paolo - Cariplo Foundation for the development of human capital in Southern Italy”, to be launched in 1999. In Italy, the geographic distribution and net worth of the ex-banking foundations tend to penalize the South: a project undertaken by two leading North Italian foundations within this area may therefore have important implications in terms of quality. The initiative will focus on high-level research and training with the aim of starting-up a pilot project for the creation of “centres of excellence”. The Compagnia has allocated 1,000 million lire to the initial fund supporting this project.

- In the area of biomedical research, the Compagnia’s attention has essentially been concentrated on standard trials capable of advancing new diagnostic and therapeutic applications.

- A grant of 500 million lire has been allocated to the setting-up of the G7 Cardio-ARC Centre, in order to purchase scientific equipment. The centre, which will be located at the Policlinico Gemelli in Rome, was the brain-child of the Rome-based Associazione Ricerche Coronariche (Association for Coronary Research). Its purpose is to study the causes and prevention mechanisms of coronary disease and originates from an international project “G7 Cardiovascular Database”, which was conceived to create a European data bank on the principal cardiovascular diseases and their causes.

♦ The Genoa-based Centro di Biotecnologie Avanzate (Advanced Biotechnology Centre) and Turin University’s Molecular Oncology Division, based at the Institute for Cancer Research and Treatment in Candiolo (Turin), have set up a gene therapy project concerning prevention of the potential spread and metastasis of tumours. The Compagnia has authorized a grant of 400 million lire for the second year of trials.
For several years, a team of researchers at the Turin University’s Department of Biomedical Science and Human Oncology have been studying “Muscle growth and regeneration”. The results obtained so far open up interesting possibilities regarding both the cure of myo-dystrophies and the potential use of muscle cells as carriers for gene therapy to cure hereditary diseases and those affecting the nervous system. In 1998, 372 million lire was allocated to this project.

The Milan-based Istituto di Ricerche Farmacologiche Mario Negri has developed a research project within the field of diabetes mellitus treatment for the realization of a bio-artificial system, which can be implanted in the patient and then removed, once it has accomplished its function. The Compagnia has allocated 307 million lire to support a second year of trials.

The three-year research project initiated by the Cellular Biology Laboratory at the Turin University’s Department of Genetics, Biology and Biochemistry, in collaboration with Ancona University’s Institute of Genetic Biology, proposes to take its study into the degenerative cell processes which induce the growth of neoplasia in humans, one step further. The grant provided by the Compagnia to support the first year of experimentation totals 218.5 million lire.

As part of the research into neuro-degenerative diseases, the Associazione Italiana per la Ricerca sull’Invecchiamento Cerebrale (the Milan-based Italian Association for Research into Cerebral Aging) has introduced a research project into the molecular processes of neuron degeneration and into new treatment approaches for cerebral ischaemia and dementia. The Compagnia has provided 150 million lire by way of research grants.

A grant of 80 million lire was allocated for the second year of research into the “Comparative evaluation of the characteristics of psychiatric care systems and the treatment and rehabilitation of schizophrenic patients in Piedmont and in Italy”, undertaken by the Turin-based Centro Studi e Ricerche in Psichiatria (Centre for Psychiatric Research and Studies). During 1998, the investigation concentrated on a comparison of the activities of the Italian psychiatric services, taking into account characteristics, socio-demographic background and the health authority network involved.

In the Chemistry Section of Turin University’s Genetics Department, a team of researchers are conducting a research project into malaria. The aim of the project is to identify the mechanism which triggers malarial depression of the immune system, the molecular process leading to the toxicity of the malarial pigment and the causes of resistance to the disease found in individuals with a genetic abnormality which is common-place in Africa. The Compagnia has granted 62 million lire for the second year of research into this area.

The Centro di Bioingegneria (Turin Polytechnic’s Bioengineering Research and Training Centre), located at the Vittorio Valletta Hospital in Turin - coordinates, integrates and transfers research and teaching projects on bioengineering applications for the neuro-muscular system and motor-system rehabilitation, to health authorities and small industry. The Centre has received a grant of 110 million lire from the Compagnia towards research activities.
Activities in 1998

♦ 100 million lire was the amount of the Compagnia’s grant, in the form of a subscription, to the Fondazione per le Biotecnologie, following a decision to take an active role in the development of the institution’s activities.

♦ Turin University’s Department of Information Technology, in collaboration with the Operative Unit of Nephrology, Dialysis and Transplants, San Giovanni Battista Hospital in Turin, have developed a project entitled SINTRA - Transplant Information System, targeted at the organizational analysis and development of the operational processes of Turin University's Transplant Centre. Funding received from the Compagnia for research grants and the purchase of IT equipment amounted to 66 million lire.

♦ Other recipients of grants were the Società Italiana di Parassitologia in Rome for the publication of extracts from the conference on “The malaria challenge after one hundred years of malariology” (54 million lire), the Associazione Centro Scienza for the scientific disclosure “Giovedì Scienza” (40 million lire) and for a two-day seminar on “Innovative Technology” organized by the Turin Chamber of Commerce (40 million lire).

Economic and Juridical Research

In this sector, the Compagnia’s contribution has focused on the support of activities carried out in Italian Universities and several of the more influential research institutions. The Centro Superiore di Formazione Economico-finanziaria (Higher-Education Centre for Economic-Financial Training), which will be located at Real Collegio Carlo Alberto in Moncalieri (Turin), is included within this latter group and will be discussed further on in the section on Education.

In 1998 research in the field of international economics and politics was supported, with reference to the history of and outlook for European integration.

♦ A grant of 200 million lire was awarded to aid the second year of the project “Turin study centre for a new Europe”, developed by Turin’s Fondazione Luigi Einaudi. The project examines the political/institutional, economic and cultural implications of European integration. A further grant of 60 million lire has been authorized to fund two renewable scholarships made available by the Einaudi Foundation within the areas of economics and history.

♦ The Compagnia supports a joint venture between ISPI - the Milan-based Institute for Studies in International Politics and IAI - the Institute of International Affairs in Rome. The project focuses on the “Internationalization of Italian Society”, and will be developed over the three-year period 1999-2001. The Compagnia has provided 100 million lire for initiatives already underway at the end of 1998.

♦ The research of CESDI - the Turin-based International Documentation and Research Centre - on “The outlook for Northern Italy in the Year 2000”, examines crucial themes on the globalization of the economy, the establishment of an economic and monetary union in Europe and the system of liaison with other countries in the Mediterranean area. This six-month project has been awarded a grant of 100 million lire.
The project concerning the “Management of Economic and Monetary Union”, promoted by the Compagnia and handled by CER (Europa Research Centre) in collaboration with Groupement d’études et de recherches Notre Europe, chaired by Jacques Delors, proposes to evaluate the impact of the euro’s introduction on the convergence process affecting the member states and to examine the changes induced in manufacturing sectors and on labour markets. The Compagnia has awarded a grant of 96 million lire for the development of this initiative.

The grant of 64 million lire allocated to CESI - the Turin-based Einstein Centre for International Research - concerned two different initiatives: the dissemination of results deriving from the workshop held in April 1998 on “The future of Piedmont within the European Union” and the re-organization and up-dating of the archives kept by the Centre. These archives include the complete catalogued works of Altiero Spinelli, Ivan Matteo Lombardo, Ernesto Rossi and Mario Albertini.

Under the three-year research project entitled “The New European Economic Identity”, the Centro di Ricerca e Documentazione Luigi Einaudi, a Turin-based think-tank, aims to analyze the manufacturing bases of the European economies, in order to emphasize convergences and specificities and to identify the types of capitalism which characterize them. The Compagnia’s grant towards the third year of work on this project amounted to 50 million lire.

Another line of support was represented by research into the area of economic history and, in particular, by the initiatives directed at making full use of and providing access to archive and library sources.

Such projects included restoration of the premises housing the archive belonging to Educatorio Duchessa Isabella in Turin, which will be used by Ufficio Pio, Educatorio, the Compagnia and the Archivio Storico (Historical archives) San Paolo. The allocation amounts to 1,000 million lire (divided between the Research and Assistance sectors).

The Compagnia has contributed to the foundation of the Associazione per l’Archivio Storico Olivetti, based in Ivrea (Turin), in the form of a grant totaling 200 million lire. This initiative aims to set up the recovery, preservation, study, promotion and enhancement of the products, documents and research tied to the history and evolution of the “Olivetti project”.

The Istituto Piemontese per la Storia della Resistenza e della Società Contemporanea (the Turin-based Piedmont Institute for the History of the Resistance and Contemporary Society) has developed a three-year research project into “Urban Areas and Processes of Modernization in the Post-War Period”, which compares three urban areas representative of a wider European reality: Turin, Grenoble and Cologne. The Compagnia has allocated 50 million lire to support the third year of this research project.

The series I Grandi Economisti Contemporanei (selected writings by some of the most important contemporary economists) has reached its 26th volume. The series is edited by Terenzio Cozzi and Stefano Zamagni and produced in collaboration with the publishing house Società editrice il Mulino. In 1998 a collection of works by Gary Becker was published and 34 million lire was awarded for the publication of the writings of Richard Kahn. The Compagnia has also authorized a grant of 50 million lire to support the publication of four volumes in the series edited by SIÉ - the Ancona-based Italian Economists Society.

♦ The three-year research project into “Germany on the threshold of the Year 2000” has been backed by the Istituto di Studi Storici (Institute of Historical Studies) Gaetano Salvemini in Turin, with the purpose of producing a systematic documentation of the changes which have occurred in German society during the past ten years. In order to support a third year of work on this project, the Compagnia has awarded a grant of 30 million lire.

♦ The Fondazione Vera Nocentini in Turin is carrying out an historical/legal investigation into the contents of the fourteen Collective Labour Agreements for the metal and mechanical industry drawn up from the period immediately after the second World War up to the present day and into agreements between trade unions stipulated in the same period. The Compagnia has authorized a grant of 30 million lire in aid of this research project.

♦ The Milan-based Fondazione Giangiacomo Feltrinelli has developed a three-year project entitled “Italian Economists between the Napoleonic Period and the Unification of Italy”, with the purpose of compiling a catalogue (in three volumes) of the Foundation’s collection of original works (dealing with the economic debate in Italy during the 19th century). The first two volumes in this series have already been published with the aid of the Compagnia, who provided a further grant of 20 million lire for the third and final volume.

Substantial support was provided for research into issues of primary relevance to the current debate in legal/institutional and economic circles and non-profit making sectors.

♦ The IRS (Institute for Social Research) and the Centro di Ricerche sulla Cooperazione (Cooperation Research Centre) of Milan’s Università Cattolica will, over the next two years, carry out the Italian part of the research into “The Nonprofit Sector: a Comparative Analysis”, backed by the Institute for Policy Studies of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. The Compagnia has provided 100 million lire to support the Italian part of the research project which, once completed, will present a comparative analysis of the Non-profit Sector in 28 countries.

♦ The Department of Social Science at the Turin University is conducting a two-year research project into the “Reproduction Mechanisms of Social Inequality in Turin”. The aim of the project is to examine the causes of inequality with regard to access to basic social resources, such as work, health, housing and welfare assistance. The Compagnia has allocated 50 million lire to this project.

♦ Between 1997 and 1998, AREL - Agenzia di Ricerche e Legislazione (the Rome-based Research and Legislation Agency) carried out a study into the “Utilities: Competition in the Provision of Services”, which was partly financed by the Compagnia. In 1998, the Compagnia allocated 50 million lire towards the publication of the research and the institutional activities of the Agency.
The Centro di Politica Comparata Poleis (a Research Centre for Comparative Politics), established within the Department of Political Economics at the Bocconi University in Milan, has backed a three-year research project into “Public Policy and the Political System: a Comparative Study of the Italian Case”, which is divided into a series of monographic studies. The Compagnia has awarded a grant of 50 million for the third year of research activities.

Other grants have concerned research into: “Emergency measures against unemployment”, carried out by the Department of Economics at Turin University (26.4 million lire); “Managed savings: pension and mutual investment funds”, developed by the Turin-based Comitato Giorgio Rota (20 million lire) and, with a grant of 10 million lire, “Cooperation and promotion of the private sector in developing countries”, backed by the Centro Studi Luca D’Agliano (a Turin-based centre for economic research), a project partly financed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The Compagnia has guaranteed its support in aid of institutions involved in research and training activities in the areas of history, law and economics.

Training in the area of the policies for producing and distributing public utilities is the aim of the Summer School which will be held from 1999 onwards by the Fondazione per l’Ambiente Teobaldo Fenoglio. The Foundation, promoted by the Province of Turin, will work in the fields of applied research and economic and legal training with regard to local environmental policies. The Compagnia will support the Summer School and the preparation of the relevant teaching materials by providing a grant of 297 million lire over a period of three years.

The Compagnia has increased its participation with regard to ICER - the Turin-based International Centre for Economic Research - by providing a grant of 100 million lire and assuming the role of “founding member”. Within the area of economic research, ICER pays particular attention to international scientific exchanges and the opportunities for the advancement of young scholars.

A grant of 100 million lire has been provided to support the institutional activities of the Rome-based Fondazione Adriano Olivetti and the relaunch of the publication “Città”. The Foundation is dedicated - in line with the ideals of Adriano Olivetti - to the advancement of studies in urban and socio-economic matters.
University and Post-graduate Studies

The Compagnia has identified the enhancement of excellence in university research and higher education as one of the priorities within this sector; relevant grants and synergies have been developed with the Research sector along this theme.

The creation of an Istituto Superiore di Tecnologia dell’Informazione e delle Telecomunicazioni (Higher Institute of Information and Telecommunications Technology) with the Turin Polytechnic and the establishment of a Centro Superiore di Formazione Economico-finanziaria (Higher-Education Centre for Economic-Financial Training) at the Real Collegio Carlo Alberto in Moncalieri (Turin) fall within this perspective.

The Compagnia will focus its commitment to the Turin Polytechnic on the ICT (Information and Communication Technologies) sector, as part of the project to expand the athenaeum; this commitment will involve funding of 42 billion lire over the five-year period 1998-2002.

The “ICT project” is divided into three interdependent sections: the creation of a Higher Education Institute of Technology for Information and Telecommunications (to which at least 80% of the funding provided will be allocated); support of initiatives in the area of internal research or activities directly linked to the Institute; support of collateral initiatives, with the involvement of the Polytechnic and external individuals, in order to strengthen the ICT sector at local level.

Participation in the ICT project was fully financed in 1998. Since the commitment to this project represents around 40% of total grants allocated during the year, it assumes a central role in the Compagnia’s strategies.

The Compagnia has furthered the establishment of a Higher-Education Centre for Economic-Financial Training at the Real Collegio Carlo Alberto in Moncalieri (Turin). The Centre will contribute towards making Turin an international benchmark in terms of university-level education within the economic and financial field. It will also enable the protection and enhancement of the cultural and artistic heritage of the Collegio.
The project will be carried out by a Consortium which will comprise the interested parties (CORIPE, the Turin Business School, Turin University and the Compagnia). The Consortium will commission the structural intervention on the college and will be its tenant. A “Convention on higher education” should further link the parties involved in developing educational activities and advanced research in the Turin area. The Compagnia provided a total of 5,500 million lire in 1998 for the launch of the Consortium, the first building activities and its rental charges; this sum was divided between the Scientific, economic and juridical research and Education sectors.

As described in the section on Research, the Compagnia is attentive to the concerns and studies regarding European and international politics, also in collaboration with other European and international institutions operating in the same area. In this regard, a grant of 400 million lire has been made in favour of the project entitled “Communications and Information Technology as an instrument of reform for the United Nations system”, which is aimed at training UNO executives and officials. The initiative, which is being developed in collaboration with the United Nations’ Staff College Project, the Globus et Locus Association in Milan, the Alta Scuola di Economia e Relazioni Internazionali (Milan-based Higher College of Economics and International Relations) and SAA, Turin University’s Business School, has been set up in Turin at the International Training Centre of the ILO - International Labour Organization.
Many other initiatives have been developed in order to further centres of excellence in the areas of university & post graduate studies and research. The following grants have been awarded in this area:

♦ 400 million lire in favour of CORIPE - Piedmont, for a masters programme in Economics (which has reached its seventh edition) and a new masters programme in Finance, as well as for the enhancement of the library and IT facilities;

♦ 200 million lire in favour of the Istituto Universitario Europeo di San Domenico di Fiesole, to support the foundation of a Second Mediterranean Professorship over a four-year period with particular reference to economic and financial topics and the economics of growth;

♦ 100 million lire in favour of IUSE - Istituto Universitario di Studi Europei in Turin to support education programmes and activities concerning the documentation of International and European community organizations;

♦ 50 million lire for the Scuola Universitaria in Commercio Estero di Torino (Turin’s University School for Foreign Trade), towards the creation of a multi-media laboratory;

♦ 30 million for ILO - International Labour Organization, Turin, to aid the Eighth Edition of the Post-Graduate Course in International Business Law.

Scholarship Awards

Study and research awards financed by the Compagnia essentially address areas closely linked to its programmed lines of intervention. During 1998 the following grants were made:

♦ 90 million lire in favour of the Law Faculty at Turin University, for a three-year scholarship for attendance of the Ph.D. in Philosophy of Law and Theory of Legislative Information;

♦ 70 million lire for the Associazione per lo Sviluppo Scientifico e Tecnologico del Piemonte (Piedmont Association for Scientific and Technological Development), towards the creation of two scholarship awards for the education of young technologists;

♦ 60 million lire to the Collegio del Mondo Unito dell’Adriatico, based in Duino (Trieste), which accommodates high school students from around 70 countries, for a two-year attendance scholarship;

♦ 40 million lire in favour of SAA - Turin University’s Business School, for a scholarship award regarding attendance of a masters programme in Financial Management;
♦ 36 million lire, in favour of the Scuola di Specializzazione in Diritto degli Scambi Transnazionali di Torino (School of Specialization in the Law of Cross-border Transactions), to fund three scholarships for the attendance of this course; department.

♦ 30 million lire to COREP - Consorzio per la Ricerca e l’Educazione Permanente in Piemonte (Consortium for Research and Higher Education in Piedmont) towards two scholarships for attendance of the masters programme in Analysis of Public Policy;

♦ 26 million lire for SAA - Turin University’s Business School, for the funding of two scholarship grants regarding attendance of a masters programme for Corporate Lawyers;

♦ 15 million lire towards research awards as part of the “Collegium” project, which aims to examine the themes for a feasibility study on the creation of university colleges in Italy based on the Anglo-Saxon model;

♦ 12 million lire for SAA - Turin University’s Business School, towards scholarships for the attendance of a post-doctorate specialization course in the Management of Non-Profit making organizations.

“Getting to Know One Another: Education for an Intercultural Society”

Under the “Getting to know one another: education for an intercultural society” programme, the Compagnia intends to promote public spirit via education for the acceptance of cultural differences and the spreading of a culture of responsibility.

♦ The main initiatives carried out in 1998 concerned the Centro Interculturale della Città di Torino (Intercultural Centre of the City of Turin), which aims to make instruments available to teachers for adequate education on the topics under discussion. The project, totaling 540 million lire, concerns the setting up a four new Intercultural Laboratories (on “Human Rights Education”, “Historical ethnic minorities - Waldenses, Jews and Romanies”, “Economics of development and under development”, and “The Religions of the world”) and the enhancement of the two existing libraries (on “Italian emigration throughout the world” and “Maghrebian Islam”), the creation of an intercultural Internet site and the production of a multi-media kit for schools.

The “Getting to know one another” project also involves the granting of awards to establishments which develop projects or carry out activities which further the growth of a balanced multi-cultural society:

♦ 75 million lire in favour of CICSENE - Centro di Collaborazione per lo Sviluppo Edilizio delle Nazioni Emergenti (Centre of Cooperation for Building Development In Emerging Nations), for the creation of an educational kit designed for students and teachers as part of the project “EX-change cultures”;

♦ 60 million lire for the creation of a video on the Islamic culture, developed by the Federico Peirone Centre;
Activities in 1998

♦ 45 million lire to the City of Turin, for the editing of documentation on the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, as part of the event “Identity and Difference”;

♦ 31.3 million lire in favour of the Almaterra Association, to aid a “Comparative research into conceptual and practical typologies of the use of the immigrant workforce at social level in the area of mixed culture”;

♦ 26 million lire in favour of the Comitato Oltre il Razzismo (Committee “Beyond Racism”), for the creation of an “Emergency Network Against Racism”, which aims to provide legal protection for individuals who suffer racial intolerance and to raise the awareness of institutions and Italian public opinion in this regard;

♦ 10 million lire for the Istituto Tecnico Avogadro (Turin), which offers refresher courses to Albanian school teachers at schools in Turin;
10 million lire for the IRES Lucia Morosini Association, to aid the research project “New families and old services”.

Other initiatives in the Education sector during 1998 include:

- A grant of 200 million lire to the Associazione Impegnarsi Serve in Rivoli (Turin) for the setting up of educational courses linked to the exhibition “Cocaine and maloca - the cultivation and culture of cocaine in Amazonian Colombia”.

- The two-year research project “Scholastic Performance, Public Spirit, Italian Identity and European identity among Young Italians”, backed by the Carlo Cattaneo Institute in Bologna, which has been allocated a grant of 150 million lire. The initiative intends to verify the efficiency of educational activities in secondary and high schools and to identify the inclination of students in relation to matters of public spirit, identification with democratic institutions and sense of belonging to Italy and Europe.

- A grant of 100 million lire was made available to the Accademia Italiana di Economia Aziendale (the Bologna-based Italian Academy of Corporate Economics) for the start-up of a “Teaching School of Method for Young University Teachers”, at the Turin University’s School of Corporate Management, located at Pinerolo (Turin).

- The project for the prevention of juvenile suffering, backed by the Hänsel e Gretel Centre in Turin, which offers training courses for teachers, received a grant of 26 million lire.

- A grant of 20 million lire was allocated to the Associazione Amici dell’Università degli Studi di Torino (Friends of Turin University) to support projects undertaken in its first year of activities.
ART

The Compagnia's support for Art in 1998
totaled 13,319,844,000 lire (6,879,125 euro)

Centocittà Award

Addressing the subject of the rehabilitation of inner city areas, the Centocittà Award is a “Competition of Ideas” which poses one hundred local government offices the problem of salvaging historical inner cities via the restoration of building complexes located in areas of particular decay, so that such areas may be used for activities of public interest, social benefit and economic growth.

The Award for the first year of the Competition has been assigned to the City of Lecce; the Compagnia has in fact drawn up a specific Covenant with the City, that will involve restoring the 16th Century Conservatorio di Sant’Anna which will be used to accommodate a Centre for Equal Opportunities.

During 1998, the Compagnia launched the Second Edition of the Award, for which 3 billion lire has been earmarked. In December of the same year, the competition’s jury, chaired by Renzo Piano, admitted the cities of Bassano del Grappa, Cittadella, Gallipoli, Ostuni and Santa Maria Capua Vetere to the final stages.

Palazzo Reale, Turin

The “Palazzo Reale Project” continued throughout 1998, under its threefold guise of research programme, enhancement project and restoration campaign.

♦ The stage relating to the refurbishment of the reception rooms and to the first significant portion of work carried out on the part of the Palace damaged by fire on the night of 11 April 1997, has been completed. In July 1998, the Grand Staircase and the reception gallery on the first floor were re-opened, presenting rooms restored to their full splendour and original colour.

♦ The opening of the Palazzo Reale presented an occasion to launch an enhancement campaign targeted at publicizing the renewed image of the building. In the three days following the opening ceremony, the royal apartments were opened up to the public free of charge. The Compagnia provided 150 million lire for this purpose, in addition to 73.3 million lire for costs incurred in relation to the free admission of 12,000 visitors.

♦ A further grant of 70 million lire was authorized for the Associazione Amici di Palazzo Reale (Friends of the Palazzo Reale) who, during the display of the Shroud, managed and coordinated surveillance, protection and tourist guide facilities.
As far as restoration work was concerned, a grant of 650 million lire was provided for the complete refurbishment of the Queen’s Throne Room, better known as the Sala dei Medaglioni (Room of Medals).

The research project on Palazzo Reale continued during the year in parallel with restoration work, availing of a grant totaling 1,300 million lire. The commission chaired by Pierre Rosenberg concluded the first stage of the research project and prepared a structured information system for the consistent collection of data.

During 1998 the Compagnia’s initiatives with regard to the Palazzo Reale have involved: the creation of an initial general survey of the Palace on a computerized basis in collaboration with the Turin Polytechnic; the cataloguing of movable and immovable assets preserved in the Royal Apartments; the promotion of studies relating to the construction and decoration stages of the Palace and the garden.

The Turin Museum Network

The Compagnia has confirmed its interest in enhancing the former centre of royal power in the historic centre of Turin, where the City’s principal museums lie; museums which need to be reviewed and refurbished in order to realize their full potential, as part of an integrated system.

In 1998, the problems concerning the headquarters of the Egyptian Museum where examined together with the potential reorganization of the collections preserved there. For this purpose, a grant of 60 million lire was provided for the organization, in collaboration with the Turin Egyptian Museum, of an international seminar which aimed to compare the experiences of those museums which, in prior years, have tackled the problem of reorganizing their Egyptian collections and to solicit the remarks of some of the more authoritative experts regarding the future of the Turin-based museum.
For the purposes of re-affirming the image of Turin as a centre of Egyptology in Europe, a grant of 300 million lire was also authorized for the Associazione Torino Città Capitale Europea, of which the Compagnia is a founding member. The grant was provided for preparing the “Sudan. Ancient Kingdoms on the Nile” exhibition, which was held in Spring 1999 at the premises of the Promotrice delle Belle Arti di Torino (Turin’s Agency promoting the Fine Arts).

Projects for the enhancement of collections belonging to national museums are included within the commitment of the Compagnia and involve the restoration of 400 Etruscan exhibits, which form part of an important collection recently acquired by the Piedmont Archeology Superintendent. A contribution of 170 million lire was authorized for this purpose.

In anticipation of restoration and rehabilitation work on the Guarini-designed entrance hall of Palazzo Carignano, the Compagnia has backed and financed (30 million lire) a specific research project. A work restoration programme has been devised on the basis of the results obtained and the Compagnia has provided 2,500 million lire for its realization. The initiative should return the monument to its original splendour for all those citizens and visitors who will arrive in Turin for the Jubilee year and the attendant display of the Turin Shroud.

The extensive rehabilitation programme focusing on the central district of Turin includes the Compagnia’s participation in the “Contrada di Po” committee; the committee is charged with coordinating the environmental and cultural rehabilitation and socio-economic revitalization of this area of the city which encompasses the Palazzo Reale, Piazza Castello, the Cavallerizza, Palazzo Carignano, the Egyptian Museum, and the length of Via Po up to Piazza Vittorio Veneto; for the above purposes a grant of 100 million lire has been allocated.

On the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the Consulta per la valorizzazione dei Beni Artistici e Storici di Torino (Companies jointly engaged in patronage of the arts), a display vault was set up in the Biblioteca Reale di Torino and inaugurated with an exhibition dedicated to the drawings of Leonardo preserved at the library. The Compagnia’s contribution to this project, in equal measure with the other associates of the Consulta, came to 52.5 million lire.

Artistic - Religious Heritage in the Historic Centre of Turin

Restoration work has been started on the entire decorative structure located inside the Chiesa dei SS. Martiri. Work is being carried out on the stucco work, frescos, plasterwork, paintings, marble and bronze work which over the centuries have enriched the vault, central nave, side chapels and apse of the Church. The contribution authorized by the Compagnia for restoration work amounted to 2,700 million lire.
The initiative also presented an opportunity to set up a study into the historical, architectural and artistic events surrounding the building, events which will converge in the publication of a volume on the Church of the Martyrs and the San Paolo complex, where the Compagnia di San Paolo was located until 1702. The contribution for this project totaled 200 million lire.

♦ A grant of 400 million lire has been authorized for the restoration of the decorative structure of the Presbytery and Chancel of the Church of San Lorenzo, executed by Guarini, which is located in the neighborhood of the Palazzo Reale. The decoration which adorns the vaults has recently been attributed to the painter Domenico Guidobono, thanks to the results of the research projects backed by the Compagnia in 1997 as part of the "Concorso Artisti Attivi in Piemonte" (Competition for artists active in Piedmont).

Research Awards in the Artistic-Historical Field

♦ The Compagnia supports studies and research in the artistic-historical field and the training of young art historians, via the disbursement of research grants. The “Competition for artists active in the Piedmont region” was announced as part of this initiative; the Competition, already in its second year, is targeted at the promotion and diffusion of artistic learning in the Piedmont region. In addition the “Cultural frontiers between Italy and Europe Competition” was also announced; the Competition covers the period running between the 9th and the 19th centuries. The overall contribution to the programme of grants for studies on artistic-historical subjects amounted to 140 million lire.

Contemporary Art

Within the field of contemporary art, the initiatives of the Compagnia have been directed in a two-fold direction: on the one hand, support has been guaranteed for exhibitions in the Turin area, and on the other, the experimental theme of “dialogue between contemporary art and inner city areas” has been tackled.
Activities in 1998

♦ The first type of initiative has involved a contribution of 100 million lire in favour of the Province of Turin, for the preparation of a retrospective dedicated to the works of Christo and Jeanne Claude, which was exhibited at the Palazzo Bricherasio.

♦ The subject of “cohabitation of contemporary art forms and historical public spaces” is the underlying theme of the event/exhibition “Luci d’Artista”, promoted in the central district of Turin during the New Year festivities. The City of Turin has charged 14 internationally acclaimed artists with the task of lighting up approximately twenty kilometers of streets and squares with their creations. The project, supported by the Compagnia by way of a contribution totaling 200 million lire, arose from the collaboration and commitment of the leading local authorities and associations in the city.

♦ Contemporary art as an instrument for the rehabilitation of urban decay forms the basis of the Competition organized by the Turin-based Artissima Association, who has invited selected artists to propose active solutions for recovering three walls of buildings overlooking public places, with different features and values. The Compagnia has provided a contribution of 30 million lire to this project.

Other Support for the Artistic Heritage

♦ As part of a wider project for promoting the “Vie della Seta” (Silk routes), an itinerary of particular historical value unwinds in the Province of Cuneo. The town of Caraglio is home to the “Filatoio Rosso” (the red spinning wheel), one of the most prestigious silk mills located in Piedmont during the reign of Savoia kings; the mill is considered to be the first factory for the industrial processing of yarn built in Europe, and as such has received the title of historical monument of world importance from the European Council and the category of listed building from the Ministry for Artistic and Cultural Heritage. In 1998, a project for the preservation and restoration of the building and its use as museum space and teaching workshops was presented before the European Union. Support provided by the Compagnia amounted to 300 million lire.

♦ Alongside the more important restoration and environmental rehabilitation projects, the Compagnia also supported a diversified policy of “minor” aid for the protection of monumental property during 1998. Particular attention was paid to artistic-religious heritage and military architecture: a total of 784 million lire was provided for this initiative, divided among several projects, which have contributed towards activating the support of the economic forces present and operating in the individual communities.

♦ The project concerning the protection and enhancement of Jewish heritage in Piedmont received a grant of 70 million lire for the restoration of the Saluzzo Synagogue.
CULTURE

Compagnia grants for cultural purposes
totaled 6,849,187,524 lire (3,537,310 euro) in 1998

Grants authorized for cultural purposes can be grouped together in four main sections (Theatre, Music, Cinema, Libraries and Photographic Archives), in addition to the continuation of an important project coordinated by the Compagnia (the Drovetti project), initiatives in the museum field, research in the areas of classical, historical and social studies and support for the publication of works of significant cultural interest.

Theatre

During 1998, the Compagnia guaranteed its support for the main forms of theatrical expression, from prose to opera and dance, whilst also promoting the development of smaller theatres, who play a significant role in the area of artistic experimentation, decentralization and involvement of continually wider social strata, with particular attention to youth theatre: a total of 2,459 million lire was allocated to this initiative.

♦ More specifically, a significant contribution (750 million lire) was provided to support Turin’s Teatro Regio, which today has been transformed into a Foundation. In addition 100 million lire has been granted for the exhibition “I luoghi della Meraviglia” (“The Wonderplaces”) held to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the theatre’s construction. The exhibition was shown at the Cavallerizza, the architectural structure subject to important restoration work supported by the Compagnia (funded in 1997), which may be used to accommodate a Teatro Regio museum.

♦ Grants for an overall total of 603 million lire have been provided to subsidize Turin’s Teatro Stabile season of prose.

♦ A grant of 400 million lire was awarded to the Fondazione Teatro Nuovo per la Danza, and used for the restoration of the Teatro Nuovo.

♦ Significant contributions have also be awarded to theatre entertainment in Liguria: 200 million lire was awarded to the Theatre of Genoa, to subsidize one of the leading performances of the season; 150 million lire was granted to the Teatro della Tosse, involved in the avant-garde production “I Persiani di Eschilo alla Fiumara”; and lastly, a grant of around 146 million lire has been made available to the International Ballet Festival of Nervi.
Music

The Compagnia has agreed to privilege initiatives for the dissemination of musical culture, both at local and international level, and the promotion of relationships between music and other branches of learning. In addition, especial attention has been paid to the activities of tuition, training and specialization, which are very closely integrated with the activities of qualified musical institutions, as the fundamental basis for the professional initiation of youngsters in the sector.

♦ A total of 619 million lire has been awarded for the Music. The initiatives funded by the Compagnia include support for the musical seasons of the Lingotto Musica Association (300 million lire), the Stresa Musical Weeks (30 million lire) and the Stefano Tempia Choral Academy (10 million lire).
Grants have also been awarded for the specialization courses and scholarships of the Fondazione Scuola di Musica di Fiesole (48 million lire), the Milan-based Cantelli Orchestra Association (27 million lire) and the Cervo International Festival of Chamber Music (25 million lire).

The Compagnia has guaranteed its support for the projects of the Turin-based Terzo Salone della Musica (100 million lire) and the activities of the De Sono Association (50 million lire), the Rive Gauche Concert Association (10 million lire), the Suzuki Talent Centre Association (9 million lire), the Harmonia Mundi Academy (5 million lire) and the Associazione Musicale I Classici (5 million lire).

Cinema

The cinema industry, which has historical roots in Turin, is a laboratory of art, culture and technology. On these aspects the Compagnia has focused its intervention in the Cinema, awarding an overall total of 225 million lire.

The grant awarded to the Associazione Premio Grinzane Cavour (100 million lire), a prize-giving association, for the project "I Giovani e il cinema" (Youth and the Cinema), involved research at European level on the relationship between high-school students and film art, and is aimed at comparing the experiences and preferences shown by youngsters in several countries.

Support of the Turin Film Festival (50 million lire), a review which sets out to offer the most comprehensive and representative outline of new cinema and its manifold events, responds to the need for research and enhancement of productions linked to the problems of the young.

Considerable support has been given in favour of the Archivio Nazionale Cinematografico della Resistenza (40 million lire), through which previously unscreened and rare films by great directors have been remastered.

Promotional initiatives for film art included the grant awarded to the Antenna Media Torino Programme (20 million lire), which sets out to offer documentation and assistance to Italian companies in the audio-visual field along the lines of intervention provided by the European Union in this area.

Research and promotional projects for film art have been advanced by the Associazione Museo Nazionale del Cinema (15 million lire).
Activities in 1998

Libraries and Photographic Archives

This programme addresses innovative projects for the enhancement and restoration of archives, book and photographic libraries, in which Turin is particularly rich, for an overall amount of 765 million lire.

- The most important initiative is the so-called “Biblioteca virtuale torinese del ’700-’800”, which aims to computerize and place on the network the libraries of several of Turin’s Academies, starting with the Accademia delle Scienze di Torino (the Institute of Science); 200 million lire has been set aside for this project.

- Particularly relevant is the three-year project concerning the reorganization and enhancement of the personal library belonging to Norberto Bobbio, started in 1997 by the Piero Gobetti Research Centre; the project involves purchasing the entire scientific section of the scholar’s professional library, together with its cataloguing and computerization (150 million lire).

- Support has also been promised for the enhancement of the libraries of prestigious establishments such as CESMEO - Turin-based Middle and Far East Research Centre (100 million lire), the Firpo Foundation (100 million lire), the Einaudi Centre (50 million lire), the Donat-Cattin Foundation (50 million lire), and the Amici del Mulino Association (20 million lire).

- In the photographic sector, the project for the enhancement of the Museo Nazionale della Montagna photograph library has reached its third year (50 million lire); in addition, a grant of 20 million lire was awarded to the Fondazione Italiana per la Fotografia for the restoration of their archives and photographic backgrounds damaged by environmental disasters.

Other Cultural Projects

- Other cultural projects coordinated directly by the Compagnia include the Drovetti Project, whose initial stage was dedicated to the virtual reconstruction on CD-Rom of the Drovetti Egyptian collections, which are now divided between the Louvre in Paris and museums in Vienna and Berlin. The second stage of the project - for which 300 million lire has been provided - will focus on the publication of the personal correspondence of Bernardino Drovetti. For this complex project of high-profile cultural research, the Compagnia avails of a scientific committee comprising experts from Turin’s Egyptian Museum and the Louvre.

- This year saw the eleventh edition of the Salone del Libro in Turin, a book exhibition which represents an occasion for debate and confrontation between those who “produce” cultural works and those who “consume” them - editors and writers, readers and critics - it was also an occasion for the city to establish itself as a literary stage. The Compagnia has provided a grant of 200 million lire for this initiative.

- The research project into “Civil values and regional communities in Italy”, backed by the Fondazione Istituto Piemontese Antonio Gramsci under the scientific direction of the Department of Social Science at Turin University, focuses on the concept of “civic culture” applied to the Italian situation and seeks to shed light on the different routes which, on an national basis, lead the individual to different forms and degrees of public commitment. The Compagnia has subsidized this project with funding of 200 million lire.

Ethnobarometer is a long-term research project developed by AICE - Association for Innovative Cooperation in Europe in Brussels. The Project is being carried out under the scientific direction of the Consiglio Italiano per le Scienze Sociali di Roma (Rome-based Italian Council for the Social Sciences) and the English Centre for European Migration and Ethnic Studies, with the patronage - which includes financial support - of the European Commission and a group of leading American and European foundations. The project is based on the creation of a network operating between various research centres, individual scholars and experts, to monitor inter-ethnic relations and migratory flows in Europe, in order to evaluate racial tension and prevent social and ethnic conflict. The Compagnia has provided a grant of 100 million lire for the second year of this project.

The two projects overseen by the Centro di Documentazione Ebraica Contemporanea are a part of a historical research, divided over several years. The two projects cover the “Extermination process of European Jews in the Auschwitz-Birkenau concentration camps” (40 million lire) and “Memorial Archive” (30 million lire), and gather together extensive documentation on the eye-witness accounts of survivors of the concentration camps, both in audio and video form.

A fourth volume of the letters of “Massimo d’Azeglio, a Turin citizen for Italy and Europe”, edited by the Centro Studi Piemontesi, was presented on 15 December 1998 in the Palazzo Reale, with an event which represented the finale of the celebrations marking 150 years from 1848, promoted by the Associazione Torino Città Capitale Europea. A grant of 50 million lire has been provided for the publication of a fifth volume of the letters.

The Ente Parco Nazionale del Gran Paradiso (Gran Paradiso National Park Authority) intends to found a Museum of Historical and Cultural Canavese Traditions at Ceresole Reale; the setting up of the initiative will also receive backing from the Ministry for the Environment. The Compagnia’s contribution (250 million lire) supplements that of the CRT Foundation and the Turin-based AEM and will be used to purchase the premises of the historical Grand Hotel in Ceresole.

Screen-based and bibliographic information systems are the basis of the “Cultural itineraries through Museums and Historical Residences in Europe”, overseen by the Comitato Dimore Storiche (Committee for Historical Residences); the project (supported by the Compagnia with a grant of 50 million lire) sets out to provide cultural and technical information of a high scientific and erudite value on the circumstances surrounding historical European Residences, while creating a virtual tour via the Internet.

Given the success of the first edition, the commitment regarding scholarship awards in the classics and scientific area has again been renewed; this year the initiative deals with the theme “Prophecy and Apocalypticism in the Late Jewish and Ancient Christian Traditions between the 2nd and 3rd Centuries”, backed by the Michele Pellegrino Foundation (36 million lire) and “Placita et Observanda, Science, Philosophy, Civil Reason in 18th Century Piedmont”, established by CRISIS - The Industrial and Scientific Documentation Research Institute (30 million lire).

♦ Additionally, the project “Rariora et mirabilia” has been conceived in collaboration with CRiSIS; this project concerns a collection of published works which bears witness to the high cultural value of leading monuments to illustrated printed matter of scientific research in Piedmont between the 16th and 20th centuries. The first volume will be an anastatic reprint of the Uccelliera di Cassiano dal Pozzo, a splendid ornithological catalogue from 1622 (70 million lire).

♦ In view of the growing importance of the cultural sector in Piedmont and the economic and employment impact which it produces, a Cultural Observatory for Piedmont has been established at the IRES - Institute of Economic-Social Research in Piedmont. Contributions to this initiative have been received from both the Compagnia (30 million lire) and the Piedmont regional Administration, the City of Turin, the CRT Foundation, the Union for the Chambers of Commerce in Piedmont, IRES, Consorzio USAS, ARTLAB and AGIS. The Observatory will carry out research and analysis in the field of the region’s cultural heritage, as well as studies into specific areas commissioned by its members.

♦ The Compagnia has also supported the institutional activities of many establishments, academies, associations and cultural centres, especially in the Turin area; total grants during 1998 in this regard came to 255 million lire.

♦ A grant of 950 million lire has been awarded to the San Paolo Foundation for Culture, Science and the Arts, to subsidize its activities and operating requirements.

Lastly, in June 1998 the Compagnia published the volume Le case e le cose. La persecuzione degli ebrei torinesi nelle carte dell’EGELI 1938-1945 (Homes and Things. The Persecution of Turin Jews in the EGELI Papers) edited by Fabio Levi, which forms part of the “Quaderni dell’Archivio Storico” series. The research, carried out using documents preserved in the Archivio Storico San Paolo, constitutes the first study on the procedures for applying Italian anti-Semitic legislation with regard to expropriation of property in the period 1938-1945.
During 1998, the Compagnia’s activities in the health sector were focused on three areas: the reorganization and rationalization of the national health service, the creation and enhancement of hospital structures, biomedical research projects with clinical applications (those which concern trial and laboratory are included under the section on Scientific research). Initiatives for the purchase of equipment and ambulances are also included.

Reorganization and Rationalization of the National Health Service

The Compagnia’s support for the optimization and reorganization of the health service has the twofold scope of improving the quality of assistance for the sick and contributing towards cost control within hospitals.

10,000,000,000 lire (5,164,568 euro) of grants were approved for the Health sector in 1998
Activities in 1998

In order to develop the project “Hospitals on-line”, a grant of 530 million lire was awarded towards the purchase of IT equipment and study grants. The project links an initial nucleus of 15 hospitals and universities in the Piedmont region, active in the field of gastroenteric illnesses. The initiative is being developed by the Turin-based Associazione Subalpina Gastroenterologi via the creation of general diagnostic-treatment protocols based on the exchange of information and the experiences of the various specialists. The aim is to ensure better treatment for patients and to rationalize and optimize the organizational procedures within Gastroenterology Centres.

Following the approval of the 1998 programme of activities, the project to manage the Hospital San Giovanni Battista in Turin (“le Molinette”) as a “business unit” has been put into practice. The project, which is disciplined by a specific Covenant, tackles important reorganization aspects within the Turin health authority. In anticipation of the initiatives which should be set up in 1999, in particular with reference to internal computerized auditing, a grant of 500 million lire has been awarded for 1998 (in addition to the 1,000 million lire authorized by the Compagnia at the beginning of 1998).

Within the area of hospitalization and home care, several proposals for support have been financed, including those granted to the Fondazione Assistenza Ricerca Oncologica Onlus - FARO, a Turin-based centre for cancer research and assistance, (250 million lire) a foundation working throughout the Turin district to help terminally-ill cancer patients, the Associazione Giobbe in Turin (80 million lire) an association which assists AIDS victims and the Associazione ADAS (70 million lire), which aids patients with tumours in the Cuneo Province and is the promoter of a tele-assistance pilot project to link the homes of patients with the Centro del Dolore dell’Ospedale S. Croce in Cuneo.

Creation and Enhancement of Hospital Structures

Further to the grants already authorized in the past (6 billion lire) for creating the Institute for Cancer Research and Treatment at Candiolo (Turin), the Compagnia has awarded a grant of 2 billion lire for 1998. This award is destined to complete “stage two” of the project, which involves the introduction of wards alongside the research laboratories, diagnostic structure and day hospital.

A study is underway in Turin for the construction of a hospice which will provide palliative treatment and assistance to terminally-ill cancer patients. The project calls for the involvement of the Assessorato alla Sanità della Regione Piemonte, the San Giovanni Battista Hospital in Turin and the FARO Foundation. The hospice will be located in part of the available space at the San Vito hospital. For this purpose, the Compagnia has made an initial contribution of 1,000 million lire.

In addition, the Associazione Comunità L’Accoglienza Onlus in Rocca Canavese (Turin) is involved in constructing a hospice; the Compagnia has provided funds of 300 million lire towards costs incurred for restructuring and conversion work on the building which will house the hospice, which is located in the town where the Association has its headquarters.
The Compagnia has granted 745 million lire for purchasing high-tech equipment for the operating theatre of the Neurosurgery Department at the CTO/CRF/Maria Adelaide hospitals in Turin, a centre of excellence in the field of stereotassic surgery for the diagnosis and treatment of brain tumours, as well as the treatment of socially disabling illnesses such as Parkinson’s Disease.

A grant of 350 million lire was awarded to the Waldensian Hospital in Turin for the completions of its operating theatres.

Turin, ASG - Associazione Subalpina Gastroenterologi. Hospitals on-line: Telematic-IT link between 15 Piedmontese hospitals and universities, active in the field of gastroenteric illnesses.

The Associazione Italiana Malattia di Alzheimer (Italian Association for Alzheimer’s) - Milan/Rome Section is the organizer of an initiative, carried out in collaboration with the Italian Red Cross and the Municipality of Rome, for the creation of a day-centre for people with Alzheimer’s; the centre will include a garden, which will be structured to stimulate the sensory perception and cognizance of the patients. A grant of 100 million lire has been awarded for creating the garden.

Biomedical Research Projects with Clinical Applications

In 1998 several biomedical research projects with clinical applications financed by the Compagnia entered their second year of experimentation; at the same time, support for new projects was guaranteed.
Activities in 1998

Projects in Their Second Year of Experimentation

◆ Two studies into the haemopoietic staminal cells of the umbilical cord and their possible use for transplanting into adults have been carried out by the Fondazione Salvatore Maugeri - Clinica del Lavoro e di Riabilitazione (Rehabilitation Clinic) in Pavia, as part of the “Con-estro” laboratory (preservation, growth and transplant of haemopoietic staminal cells) under a Compagnia grant of 300 million lire and by the Turin University’s Department of Pediatric and Adolescent Science which was awarded 100 million lire.

◆ Research has continued into the care requirements of patients suffering from Alzheimer’s or other forms of dementia, carried out by the Geriatrics Section of the Department for Medical-Surgical Learning at Turin University; the Compagnia has provided 35 million lire for this project, which will be used for the formulation of assistance and rehabilitation protocols for patients and the identification of educational and support programmes for family members and care workers.

◆ Research into AIDS and the quality of life, carried out by the Psychiatric Chair of Turin University’s Department of Neuroscience (for which 32.5 million has been allocated) in collaboration with the Department of Infectious Diseases at the Amedeo di Savoia Hospital in Turin, proposes to identify an integrated support model for AIDS victims which takes into consideration the psychological, infectious and socio-rehabilitative aspects of the patient.

◆ The creation of a study award to be assigned to a coordinator of the internal and external activities, working in collaboration with the Senior Registrar, for the development of a Diabetic Retinopathy Unit at Turin University’s Department of Internal Medicine has been financed by a grant of 30 million lire.

◆ Within the area of neurosurgery-related projects, the research initiative “Coma-Sound” has continued; the project concerns the sound-and-musical stimulation of individuals in post-traumatic coma, and is being developed by the University Service of Anaesthesia and Reanimation under the Department for Medical-Surgical Learning at Turin University. The Compagnia supported this project with a grant of 15 million lire.

New Projects

◆ The Department of Experimental Medicine and Oncology - Turin University’s Section of Haematology has started a research project aimed at improving the results of chemiotherapy in lympho-proliferative disorders, identifying innovative treatment for the eradication of tumours affecting the haemopoietic system, as well as the setting up of a cell treatment unit. The Compagnia has provided 360 million lire towards the first year of the project.

◆ A skin bank has been created at the CTO/CRF/Maria Adelaide Hospital in Turin for the regeneration of skin to be grafted to patients with serious burns; this initiative - supported by the Compagnia with a grant of 350 million lire - will enable the burns unit to become a reference point in Northern and Central Italy for the harvesting, preservation and distribution of skin, to other hospitals as well as those in the area.
Within the Turin-based Molinette Hospital, Department of Phoniatrics of Turin University’s Department for Medical-Surgical Learning, plans are being made for constructing an avant-garde Centre for the study and diagnosis of the voice; the Compagnia provided 120 million lire to equip the Centre with a fully computerized stroboscopic system and a computerized spectrograph.

The Third University Division of Surgery of Turin University’s Department of Physiopathology is currently conducting clinical trials into hyperthermic-antiblastic perfusion, as treatment to be used in the fight against tumours; the Compagnia has provided 70 million lire for this project.

The Rome-based Association for research into deafness, in collaboration with Turin University’s Clinical Audiology Department, is developing a project for the audiophonologopedic screening of a selected panel of school children taken from an educational district in Turin; the investigation - supported by the Compagnia under a grant of 50 million lire - is targeted at pinpointing hearing difficulties, speech retardation, infantile dysphonia and speech disturbances.

OIRM/S.Anna di Torino’s Department of Clinical Pathology, in collaboration with the Piedmont Foundation for Osteoporosis, is conducting a study into the impact on bone metabolism of changes in the levels and activities of Insulin-Like Growth Factor-1 induced by various types of hormonal treatment. This research project, whose results are used in the prevention and cure of osteoporosis, has been awarded a grant of 38 million lire by the Compagnia in 1998.

Medical Equipment and Ambulances

Again in 1998 the Compagnia awarded grants for the provision of innovative, cutting-edge medical equipment as well as to respond to particular clinical-treatment needs and emergencies. Grants in this area totaled 1,746.5 million lire, allocated, for the main part, to health structures in the Turin area.

In order to contribute towards guaranteeing the continuity and quality of assistance provided by the emergency services, the Compagnia authorized grants during 1998 - essentially in favour of the Red Cross and public assistance bodies - of 515 million lire for the purchase of ambulances.
ASSISTANCE TO SOCIALLY DEPRIVED CATEGORIES

Within the area of social assistance and aid, the Compagnia promotes and supports projects and initiatives which aim to deal with and prevent situations of poverty and social outcasting which emerge from a complex society in continual evolution. Great attention is paid to initiatives directed at fighting the phenomenon of social exclusion and encouraging the growth of solidarity towards individuals in conditions of great hardship and marginalisation.

♦ A fundamental role is played by the “emergency social services” carried out by the Compagnia di San Paolo’s Ufficio Pio within the metropolitan district of Turin. Ufficio Pio’s activities include the awarding of scholarships by the Educatorio Duchessa Isabella. During the course of 1998, the number of individuals received at the counter of the Ufficio Pio totaled approximately 5,800, of which over 900 contacted for the first time. The Ufficio Pio disbursed - either directly or via its 174 representatives - subsidies in various forms for over 4 billion lire. In addition, around forty training/work experience grants were allocated for a total of 450 million lire, and aid of 132 million lire was agreed for the support of the “Estate Ragazzi” project, which saw the participation of 180 youngsters from families living in conditions of economic hardship. Grants of 119 million lire were allocated to approximately 400 students for purchasing school books, while 49 million lire was ear-marked to cover the board, lodging and course costs for young people in difficulties. The Ufficio Pio was awarded a grant of 5 billion lire by the Compagnia in 1998, to fund its activities.

The main initiatives funded in the Assistance sector during 1998 are illustrated below by subject area.

Assistance to Drug Addicts

♦ The Turin-based Abele Group has developed a project for the enhancement and rationalization of its activities. An industrial building provided by the FIAT Group will house the headquarters of the social cooperatives involved in the reintroduction of drug addicts to the work environment, the “Casa dei Conflitti” where the drug addicts can freely discuss about their problems, the Usury Centre, the Street University and Studies Centre. The Compagnia contributed to the restructuring costs with a grant of 500 million lire.

♦ A grant of 300 million lire has been awarded to the Centro Torinese di Solidarietà for the creation of an “Emergency semi-residential treatment community and night-time admission service annex”. The award will be used to support building work on the property which will accommodate the community.

Grants for the Assistance to socially deprived categories during 1998 totaled 15,155,000,000 lire (7,826,904 euro).
As a continuation of support for the project of the therapeutic-rehabilitative community under the Turin-based Associazione Gruppo Arco, a grant of 200 million lire has been allocated for restructuring and conversion work carried out on the headquarters which house the activities of admission and rehabilitation for drug addicts.

With the aim of creating a new residential community and day-centre for the accommodation and recovery of drug addicts, alcoholics and the disabled, the Compagnia has granted 200 million lire for a project concerning the restoration of the “Cascina Vesco”, which will be carried out by the Ivrea-based Fondazione Ruffini.

In order to further “job training and re-introduction to work activities” carried out by the Associazione Comunità Terapeutica Nikodemo based in Nichelino (Turin), a grant of 167 million lire was awarded for purchasing a folding-machine which will be used in the Graphics School.

The Centro di Solidarietà in Genoa was recently struck by a fire, which has rendered the main building in Via Asilo Garbarino unfit for use. In order to help the Centre tackle this emergency, which has entailed extraordinary expenses and additional costs for personnel due to their forced accommodation in other locations, the Compagnia has authorized a grant of 150 million lire.

A grant of 120 million lire has been provided for the educational-rehabilitative communities run by the La Cordata di Ferrere Association (Asti), in particular for the completion of the Chieri community and the fitting out of a carpentry workshop at the Ferrere site; the Association has also received an award of 93 million lire for the fitting out of a prefabricated structure destined for work activities, with the aim of extending the workshops used for the rehabilitation and social re-introduction of young drug addicts.

Following funding awarded in 1997 to the Azienda Sanitaria Locale 1 in Torino for the realization of a CD-Rom directed at educating teachers on such themes as the use and abuse of alcohol, for 1998 the Compagnia has approved a grant of 42 million lire for the continuation of the project which will involve the production of a second CD-Rom for youngsters.

Smaller grants have been awarded to subsidize the purchase of equipment and the institutional activities of establishments and associations in various regions of Italy, for a total of 252 million lire.
Activities in 1998

Assistance to the Disabled

♦ The Compagnia has provided a total grant of 415 million lire for the extension and enhancement of the structures and activities of the Comunità “La Torre” di Rivarolo Canavese run by ANFFAS - Associazione Nazionale Famiglie Fanciulli Adulti Subnormali (National Association for the Families of Subnormal Children and Adults); 235 million lire of this total has been allocated in favour of the Genoa-based Dopo di Noi Foundation for the construction of two mini-dwellings reserved for needy families with disabled children, while 180 million lire was allocated to the community’s Management Committee for conversion work needed to bring the facilities up to the current required safety standards.

♦ A grant of 350 million lire was awarded to the Italian Multiple Sclerosis Association of Rome/Turin area branch, for the creation of the Fortino social assistance day centre in Turin, a unit for people suffering from multiple sclerosis.

♦ An amount of 145 million lire has been provided in favour of the Alba-based Cooperativa Sociale “Progetto Emmaus” for the setting up of a residential community for disabled people who can no longer be cared for at home by elderly or seriously ill parents. The grant will cover building work on the premises which will accommodate the community.

♦ The Tigullio Ovest di Rapallo section of ANFFAS has devised a project which involves creating new structure which will house the Social Assistance Day Centre and Residential Community for mentally and physically handicapped children, adults and orphans and/or those without family assistance. A grant of 100 million lire was provided by the Compagnia for restructuring and extension work on the premises.
The Social Cooperative Il Granello in Varazze (Savona) has organized an initiative for the creation of an educational community centre for the handicapped. The Compagnia has provided funding of 80 million lire for this project.

The project “Observatory for Working Abilities and Social Integration in the South Mirafiori area” involves the gradual reintroduction of mentally disabled adults unable to use normal training and employment channels. The project has been developed by the Azienda USL 1 in Turin with the financial aid of the Compagnia. For the continuation of the project, a grant of 30 million lire was awarded, partly for the purchase of materials and equipment for the Aurora workshop and partly to cover the costs of the assistants.

The project devised by the Genoa-based Social Cooperative La Cruna has received funding of 19.5 million lire in relation to job training activities for people with disabilities.

In addition, other grants have been authorized (for a total of 116.5 million lire) in favour of establishments and associations for the purchase of equipment and vehicles for the disabled.

Prevention of Hardship

Two initiatives have been launched, promoted by the Genoa and Turin Municipalities respectively, with the aim of carrying out direct intervention with regard to single parent families, paying attention to both the mental and social welfare of the child and the independence of the mother.

The integrated network project, coordinated by the Genoa Municipality, is directed at responding to the housing and socio-educational needs of single mothers as well as overseeing the qualitative development of the establishments which are involved in such initiatives. In order to enable the start-up of the educational, training and structural activities required to set the project in motion, the Compagnia made a total contribution of 592 million lire (205 million lire of which was awarded to the Istituto Suore Povere Bonaerensi di San Giuseppe in Genoa; 108 million lire to the Associazione L’Approdo in Genoa; 80 million lire to the Union of Italian Women in Genoa; 74 million lire to the Italian Red Cross-Genoa Province Committee; 70 million lire to the Biscione Cooperative for Pycho-Social Assistance in Genoa and 55 million lire to the Istituto delle Figlie del Divino Zelo di Roma in Genoa.

The project developed by the Municipality of Turin involves creating an emergency aid community for mothers and babies, which will act as a filter, offering immediate accommodation and establishing a personalized programme covering subsequent action to be taken. The new community will be based in Turin in premises which have yet to be restored; the community will also offer a service encouraging the contact between daughters and parents whose relationships have been hindered or prevented. The Compagnia’s commitments to this project came to 375 million lire.

The Opera Diocesana Madonna dei Bambini - Villaggio del Ragazzo (Youth Village) in Chiavari (Genoa) has set up a project for the creation of the Benedetto Acquarone Community Centre, which will receive the elderly, people with disabilities, young people at risk and young mothers. The Compagnia has provided funding of 300 million lire for the purchase of equipment and furnishings required by the Centre.

- The Casa del Fanciullo e del Giovane (House of the Child and Young Person) managed by the Provincia di Alessandria dei Frati Minori Cappuccini and the Parrocchia di Domodossola (Verbania), requires aid to carry out substantial restoration work in order to house youngsters in difficulty on a residential basis. A grant of 200 million lire has been authorized to partly cover the costs incurred for such work.

- A grant of 150 million lire has been provided to build a pre-employment workshop for young people at risk hosted by at the Villaggio della Gioia di Narzole (Cuneo), a community run by Somaschi Priests.

- With the aim of extending the care facilities for young people living in conditions of hardship run by the Opera Diocesana Madonna dei Poveri - Città dei Ragazzi di Torino (Youth City), the Compagnia has provided 100 million lire for restoration work on the Villa Rossi, which will be used for the accommodation and social reintroduction of young people at risk.

- A grant of 80 million lire was awarded to the Genoa-based San Paolo Group for Human Solidarity for the creation of training/work-experience study grants and the development of care activities.

- The Compagnia has provided funding of 45 million lire for the project concerning the creation of a “Centro Virtuale Regionale di Telefono Amico Italia 24 ore su 24” (A Regional 24 hour Virtual Telephone Centre) which involves the use of a free-phone number which will also be operative outside the Turin area; the project is being developed as part of the emergency telephone services provided by the Association for the promotion of the social and voluntary activities of Mondo X Piemonte and Valle d’Aosta - Telefono Amico di Torino.

- The project of the Turin-based Piazzale Speranza Association involving the setting up of a mobile street unit offering a first aid to offenders who have been released from prison has received a grant of 32 million lire from the Compagnia, to partly cover the cost of purchasing equipment and for the management of the service.

- The Turin-based Vides Main Association devised a project targeted at young people in conditions of hardship, who have left school. The project aims to offer them the chance of association and education and prepare them for employment. The Compagnia’s contribution (25 million lire) is being used to set up an attendance award for individuals participating in the course who come from families with great financial difficulties.

- Grants authorized during 1998 also include funding provided to the Centro Paolo Emanuele Borsellino in Palermo. The grant of 120 million lire will be used to adapt the Centre, used to provide assistance for youngsters living in conditions of hardship, to comply with current safety standard requirements and for the creation of a specialized library on the Mafia and young people.
Grants for a total of 283 million lire have also been awarded to other bodies and associations, to support educational activities and programmes of accommodation and the social and work-related reintroduction of young people and, more generally, the socially underprivileged.

Assistance for the Elderly in Difficulty

A further grant of 200 million lire has been authorized in addition to the amount provided in 1997, towards the creation of a temporary hospitalization ward to be used by the motory rehabilitation gymnasium, which forms part of the structure run by the Opera Pia Convalescenti (Mission assisting convalescents) in the Crocetta district of Turin.

The Compagnia has provided funding of 200 million lire towards the construction costs of a new Retirement Home in the Chiomonte Municipality (Turin); the House is to be built by the Fransouâ Foundation and will be used to cover the serious lack of this type of structure in the Val di Susa.

The Compagnia has also provided support for SEA - Emergency Service for the Elderly in Turin, by way of a grant totaling 80 million lire which will partly cover the cost of purchasing equipment required to enhance institutional activities. Aid has also been extended to the Cuorgné Municipality (Turin): a grant of 75 million lire was awarded to cover the cost of restructuring work on property which will be used as a Meeting Centre for the elderly.

Assistance to Persons Suffering from Serious Illnesses

♦ In order to support the introduction of mentally-ill patients to employment, Genoa Municipality’s Assessorato alla Promozione Sociale has extended the number of study/work grants to encompass a larger number of beneficiaries. The Compagnia has provided 234.5 million lire to fund fifteen full-time study/work grants.

♦ The Turin-based Associazione Hospitale intends to set up a project for high-priority intervention on sexually transmitted diseases and their degeneration within migratory populations; the project will be carried out using a mobile unit equipped to establish initial contact for information purposes, to carry out diagnostic screening and provide the appropriate line of treatment. The Compagnia has provided 115 million lire to cover the purchase of the vehicle as well as to cover adaptation and personalization costs.

♦ During the past two years, the Compagnia has provided funding for a psychological support project for individuals with psychological difficulties; the project is run by the Turin-based Association for the fight against mental illness via the activation of a telephone service which runs 7 days a week. The Compagnia’s contribution towards development and enhancement of this project in 1998 amounted to 80 million lire.

♦ The Associazione DIAPSI (Turin-based Piedmont Association for the protection of the mentally ill) has set up a new project entitled “Meeting Centre- structured re-socializing activities for the mentally ill”; support for this project provided by the Compagnia totaled 50 million lire.

♦ The “Ostomy 2000” project, run by the Milan-based Associazione Italiana Stomizzati, sets out to provide home assistance, under the form of a family tutor, for patients undergoing major operations and their families; a grant of 50 million lire was provided for the realization of this initiative.

♦ Grants totaling 383 million lire have also been authorized in favour of associations and social cooperatives, for the purchase of vehicles for individuals affected by particular illnesses, the purchase of equipment, the restructuring of premises required for care activities and the support of institutional services.

Assistance to the Homeless

♦ The Compagnia has granted 500 million lire in relation to the multi-strand project for enhancing the premises of the SER.MI.G. - Servizio Missionario Giovani (Youth Missionary Service) in Turin. The contribution will partly cover the cost of restructuring and conversion work carried out in the entrance area of the Arsenale della Pace, near the Porta Palazzo, where the SER.MI.G. carries out the majority of its activities. Work specifically involves putting in stairs and other devices for people with disabilities and the creation of a new reception point.
A contribution of 250 million lire has been awarded for the expansion of activities carried out at the Centro di Ascolto Monastero run by the Auxilium Foundation of Genoa. The contribution will be used to meet the cost of restructuring part of the building where the Centre and an area for the initial assistance of the homeless will be located.

The Parish of San Secondo Martire has developed a project for the construction - near Turin’s Porta Nuova station - of the new Opera della Misericordia Mons. Pinardi. The mission acts as a multi-functional centre for dealing with the various emergency situations present throughout the territory. Under a grant of 250 million lire, the Compagnia contributed to part of the costs for the construction of the Centre which will provide care and assistance for individuals living in conditions of poverty.

In order to tackle specific needs arising in the area and by way of addition to the project “Convivenze Guidate” promoted by the Turin Municipality, the Cooparativa Parella has provided property to be used as second-stage residential accommodation for projects concerning the re-integration of the homeless. The Compagnia has provided 163 million lire towards the annual cost of achieving this initiative, in addition to a grant of 37 million lire for the purchase of a vehicle to be used by the night-time patrol service, which the Cooperative run for the Municipality in order to assist individuals in great difficulty without shelter.

COPOS - Associazione di Coordinamento per Operatori Sociali Volontari (Genoa-based association for the coordination of voluntary social workers) has developed a proposal for the publication of an information guide to public and private services for the homeless throughout the Genoa Municipality, as well as for the distribution to such individuals of essentials items. The Compagnia’s contribution to this initiative amounted to 100 million lire.

The aim of the Milan-based mission Opera San Francesco per i Poveri is to create a social service which will constitute a point of initial contact for individuals without shelter. The Compagnia’s support for this initiative totaled 25 million lire.

The Compagnia also provided funding for a total of 309 million lire in favour of associations, communities and voluntary groups, in order to support their care activities and the purchase of vehicles and health equipment.

Other Projects

During the first six months of 1998, 500 million lire was provided for the Progetto Credito Solidale (Solidarity Finance Project). The initiative, realized in agreement with Sanpaoilo IMI S.p.A. and in collaboration with the voluntary association San Paolo per la solidarietà, aims to finance families and small business in the Turin area who are open to the risk of usury. In March 1998, this project was extended to individuals with disabilities who intend to set up or extend their business activities. At the same time, the project was extended to cover the entire Province of Turin.
Activities in 1998

- An amount of 250 million lire has been provided for the Consiglio Italiano per le Scienze Sociali - CSS (Italian Council for the Social Sciences) in Rome, for the first year of research into National Social Service to be carried out in conjunction with the Cariplo Foundation. The study forms part of a wider interest by the Compagnia in the subject on European Social Service and National Social Service abroad.

- A grant of 150 million lire was authorized in order to enable completion of the Moncalieri headquarters of the Associazione Banco Alimentare del Piemonte (a food bank for Piedmont) which collects and distributes foodstuffs free of charge to voluntary associations in the region.

- In order to support the start up of the Progetto Pilota Urbano (Urban Pilot Project) in Turin, which is being partly funded by the European Union, the Compagnia has contributed 100 million lire to the Comitato Progetto Porta Palazzo, which acts as a socio-environmental rehabilitation agency within the district on the same basis as other establishments located in other European cities.

- Within the field of humanitarian initiatives, the development of a project promoted by the Turin-based Associazione ZeroCinque has continued. The project had already been supported by the Compagnia in 1997 and aims to aid the development of the community of Nuevo Gualcho, in El Salvador; in 1998 the project received a grant of 60 million lire. The activities of the Comitato “Da Torino per i bambini che soffrono” (Delegation from Turin to Children who suffer) carried on up to the end of 1998; this association was initially established in February 1994 under the initiative of the Compagnia.

In compliance with current provisions concerning voluntary services (Law 266/91 and subsequent Ministerial Decrees) the Compagnia sets aside a 15th of its income, net of operating costs and reserves, which is assigned to the Special Reserves established with the Regions to support the activities of the Centri Regionali di Servizio al Volontariato (Regional Centres for Voluntary Services). 50% of these reserves are allocated to the Comitato di Gestione del Fondo Speciale per il Volontariato del Piemonte (Management Committee of the Special Reserve for Voluntary Services in Piedmont), the area in which the foundation’s headquarters are located.

In the Compagnia’s final accounts for 1997, the provision under review amounted to 4,402,045,332 lire, allocated in favour of the Special Reserves established with the Regions as follows: Piedmont (2,201,022,666), Liguria (440,204,533), Puglia (440,204,533), Umbria (660,306,800) and the Marches (660,306,800); the last two regions were chosen on account of the serious conditions of hardship which were created after the earthquake in 1996. In the financial accounts for 1998, the total provision to the Special Reserves should amount to over 10 billion lire.
